GS1 Healthcare Online Summit
Global Standards for Global Health

17-19 November 2020

Day 1
Tuesday, 17 November

Session 1 – Anticipating the worldwide impact of regulatory developments

Host of the regulatory authorities in its field of expertise: The authorities in pharmaceuticals are based on global standards in healthcare. These regulations are developed and implemented internationally, and it is critical to know and prepare for the most recent global regulations.

Tuesday, 17 November

Session 2 – The value of digitising the supply chain

Access across all stages of the production process for digital information gathering. The driver is to gain the best possible results in the production of accurate and timely information. During this session, experts in pharmaceutical data sharing will discuss the importance of integrating data from across the global supply chain.

Wednesday, 18 November

Session 3 – Learning from a crisis to transform the future of healthcare

Similar to other sectors, healthcare is facing unprecedented challenges in the short and long term. This session will highlight the lessons learned from the pandemic and how these can be applied to the advancement of healthcare, as well as to understand the role of innovation and the potential of exciting new technologies against future challenges.

Thursday, 19 November

Day 2

Day 3

Day 4

Our Charity: The Vaccine Alliance

Our sponsors

The Global Language of Business